Local Soldier Wounded On Italian Front

Pvt. Roland E. Orner, 24-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Orner, Gettysburg R. 4, is the latest Adams countian to be wounded in action in Italy.

In a letter addressed to his parents Private Orner reveals that he received shrapnel wounds on the Italian front. Pieces of shrapnel struck him in the left arm above the elbow and in the fleshy part of the right hip. He said that he is "feeling fine" and that he is in a "hospital" "somewhere in Italy."

Private Orner entered service August 17, 1943 and sailed for Italy in January of this year.

A brother, Private Amos B. Orner, 27, is in the Air Corps. He left this noon for Tampa Florida, after spending a brief furlough at his home on the Harrisburg road.

AERIAL BATTLE

Technical Sergeant Donald Omar Price, son of Mrs. Helen Price, 160 Baltimore street, radio gunner on a B-24, a four-motored Yankee bomber, recently wrote of his experience when his crippled bomber was attacked by a formation of Nazi fighter planes while returning from a combat mission out of Italy.

Sergeant Price wrote in part as follows:

"We took off and joined the formation as usual. After while we noticed that No. 3 engine was covered with oil. It was throwing oil off something terrific. We kept on going, but around an hour later, when we were much nearer the target, the oil pressure of No. 3 engine became so low we had to feather it. Feathering is the process of turning the engine off and then changing the pitch of the propeller blade so that it cuts directly into the wind and will not revolve, thereby cutting down wind resistance.

"We were so near the target that we decided to go on. Normally we can get along on three engines but a couple other engines began acting up and throwing oil a little. We began dropping back and losing altitude very gradually until our formation was out of sight and we were all alone. Near the target we spotted another formation so we dropped our bombs (and ruined a beautiful potato patch and one road) to lighten our load, so we could try to climb into the formation for protection. It was a little behind us and off to the left.

"We managed to get pretty near it but a little below, near enough for some protection. When they got to their target and dropped their bombs (they missed up a rail yard something terrific), they had a lighter load and they, too, pulled away from us leaving us by (Please Turn to Page 2)

SCOUTS GUESTS OF TWO CLUBS

Seventeen members of Troop 77 were guests of the Rotary and Lions club at a joint picnic session at the water works Monday evening. The troop is sponsored by the two service clubs. Three scouts were unable to be present.

During the afternoon scouts and some club members enjoyed swimming, boating, horseshoe pitching and soft ball games. After the picnic supper there were soft ball games and a horseshoe pitching tournament.

The new troop charter was presented to Scoutmaster Jack Cessna and Glenn I. Bream and Z. Musselman, vice president of the Lions and Rotary clubs respectively, by Dr. Fred Tilberg, President of the Black Walnut Gettysburg scout district.

Patrol leaders reported that since the close of school members of the troop had earned more than $600 in the orchards of the county. One patrol reported that it had earned $400 since the close of school.

Four patrols presented comedy skits. This was followed by a general song-fest.

Disorganized Boche Troops Are Surrendering In Drove; Germans Burning Warsaw

(By The Associated Press)

London, Aug. 1—Warsaw was reported in flames tonight as Russian masses pressed upon its northeast suburbs behind a deluge of shells and bombs.

Farther north, other Red Army forces forced the Nazi defenders of East Prussia back along a 143-mile front to within 11.8 miles of the pre-war frontier of that cradle of German militarism.

Billows of black smoke were reported rolling from the ancient Polish capital, indicating the Germans were putting it to the torch in preparation for evacuation.

Soviets Attacking Praga

Driving in from three directions under hundreds of red-starred planes, Russian and Polish troops today attacked Praga, industrial suburb of Warsaw across the Vistula river east of the Capital.

Russian fliers reported demolitions exploding in the heart of Warsaw and Izvestia said "The Hitlerites in their fury are burning and blowing up many buildings." A front dispatch said at least one German Infantry division already had been routed in the battle for Warsaw.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, himself of Polish descent, personally directed the Red Army's mammoth assault on the metropolitan area of the Polish capital of 1,265,700 from an advanced headquarters.

One of the greatest artillery concentrations of the entire eastern front ripped into German entrenchments on the edge of Praga.

Warsaw, first United Nations capital to hear the roar of liberating cannon and the keystone of Germany's east wall, also was threatened by flanking maneuvers in which the Red Army struggled to bridge the broad Vistula southeast of the city. Another column fought close to the stream on the northwest.

Front dispatches indicated the battle for Warsaw would be fiercely prolonged by the German command which was reported under orders by Hitler to stand without retreat.

(A Berlin broadcast declared Warsaw remained calm, but said "the roar of a tank battle can be heard in the city.")

The assault on Warsaw virtually was matched in importance by a three-pronged Red Army drive against East Prussia in a sector now 143 miles wide. Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's command advanced in to 31 miles and approached within 11.8 miles of East Prussia proper.

FEW LICENSES SOLD

The volume of marriage license business at the office of the clerk of the courts here sank to a new low for 1944 during last month when only five couples were licensed to wed, Deputy Clerk Marta Boyd McCleary said today.

By GLADWIN HILL

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 1 (AP)—American tank columns stormed across the Seine river from captured Avranches today, carrying the invasion into Brittany.

On the Allies' east flank—pointed toward Paris—the British drove 11 miles south of Caumont.

The Germans' whole 80-mile front appeared shattered and their disorganized legions were surrendering in disconsolate droves.

In the central sector east of the Vire river the British joined up with the American drive southeast of captured Torgny and swept over tough, wooded ridges across the Souleuvre river only five miles from the key communications town of Vire.

Entire Front On The Move

Just south of Caen Canadian troops after a deadlock of nearly a week captured Tilly-la-Champagne, but later front dispatches said the Germans had driven them out again.

Already the unchecked American armor had enveloped Pontaubault, four miles due south of Avranches, and had overrun Ducey, five miles to the southeast.

The Allies were on the move along the whole Normandy front.

Some Yank units turned eastward from the coast and approached close to the north-south Percy-Villedieu-les-Poies road, taking most of the lateral Granville-Villedieu highway, supreme headquarters announced.

Villedieu itself was being hemmed in by American units closing in from both the north and west. The Americans now were within two miles of that Normandy road hub city which is 11 miles northeast of Avranches. A front dispatch said other units had smashed past the town to the south. Still further to the northeast heavy fighting was raging near Percy and northwest of Tessy-Sur-Vire.

11 Mile Advance

Driving across the Souleuvre river less than two miles west of the German stronghold of Le Beay-Bocage, the British had advanced 11 miles south of their Sunday jump-off area around Caumont and were some 22 miles inland from the English Channel. This was the deepest British penetration of the invasion.

Canadian troops on the left flank east of the Orne river captured the bitterly-defended Nazi stronghold at Tilly-la-Campagne, more than five miles south of Caen.

A British column to the westward joined hands with American forces at a point southwest of the Eveque forest, six miles southeast of Torgny-Sur-Vire.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's tank advance beyond Avranches puts the Americans in position to strike 100 miles across the Brittany peninsula base or to turn east toward the m-

Name Stilwell Full General

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated Lt. Gen. Joseph Warren Stilwell, American commander of Chinese forces in Burma, to be a full general in the army of the United States.

The proposed promotion, raising Stilwell to a rank held by Gen. George C. Marshall, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, suggested the probability of new and more important work for Stilwell in the Burma-China area.

In the American military organization, he holds the assignment of commanding general of U. S. Army forces in the Burma-China theater. He also holds a top-flight position under Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek of China and has certain staff duties under the Allied commander in chief in southeast Asia, Lord Louis Mountbatten.

July Traffic Is One-Tenth Normal

Tourist traffic over the battlefield during July was only about one-tenth of a normal July, William Allison, superintendent of the Gettysburg National cemetery, announced today.

There were 446 long, short and bus trips over the field carrying 1,795 persons during the 31-day period, Superintendent Allison said.

The trips were divided as follows: 336 long trips carrying 1,193 persons; 162 short trips carrying 346 persons and eight bus tours carrying 251 persons.

JULY RAINFALL WAS ONE-THIRD NORMAL FIGURE

Gettysburg and this section of Adams county received only 1.30 inches of rain in July—less than one-third the normal amount for the month, records of Dr. Henry Stewart, local observer, show.

At the same time heat waves of record length kept temperatures well above average levels with 19 days of the 31 finding thermometer readings of 90 degrees or above. On the average, each day last month was 2.7 degrees hotter than an average July day should be in Gettysburg. The month's average temperature was 76.9 degrees while in June the average was 72 degrees and that month was abnormally warm.

Readings of 90 degrees or more were taken here daily for the last nine days of the month. Friday's high here was 92 while Sunday's maximum was 93. The highest temperature of the summer in Gettysburg was recorded July 12 at 96 degrees. The month's low was reached July 22 when the mercury sank to 53 degrees.

23 Clear Days

The continued acute shortage of rainfall in July amounted to more than five inches—5.02 inches to be exact—the 1944 rainfall shortage here. July's 1.3 inches of rain was 3.65 inches below normal July precipitation. June rainfall here was 2.18 inches, less than half of the normal level for that month.

The "biggest" rain last month was measured on July 13 when 6.1 inches was recorded. The shower last Wednesday evening amounted to 3 inches. Measurable amounts of rain fell on only four days last month while 23 of the 31 days were recorded as clear, five as partly cloudy and only three as cloudy.

July's high temperature was three degrees above the previous high of 93 degrees recorded in June.

The volume of marriage license business at the office of the clerk of the courts here sank to a new low for 1944 during last month when only five couples were licensed to wed. Deputy Clerk Marta Boyd McClell said today.

By GLADWIN HILL.

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 1 (AP)—American tank columns stormed across the Selune river from captured Avranches today, carrying the invasion into Brittany.

On the Allies' east flank—pointed toward Paris—the British drove 11 miles south of Caumont.

The Germans' whole 80-mile front appeared shattered and their disorganized legions were surrendering in disconsolate droves.

In the central sector east of the Vire river the British joined up with the American drive southeast of captured Torigny and swept over tough, wooded ridges across the Souleuvre river only five miles from the key communications town of Vire.

Entire Front On The Move

Just south of Caen Canadian troops after a deadlock of nearly a week captured Tilly-la-Champagne, but later front dispatches said the Germans had driven them out again.

Already the unchecked American armor had enveloped Pontaubault, four miles due south of Avranches, and had overrun Ducey, five miles to the southeast.

The Allies were on the move along the whole Normandy front.

Some Yank units turned eastward from the coast and approached close to the north-south Percy-Villedieu-les-Poelles road, taking most of the lateral Granville-Villedieu highway, supreme headquarters announced.

Villedieu itself was being hemmed in by American units closing in from both the north and west. The Americans now were within two miles of that Normandy road hub city which is 11 miles northeast of Avranches. A front dispatch said other units had smashed past the town to the south. Still further to the northeast heavy fighting was raging near Percy and northwest of Tassy-Sur-Vire.

11 Mile Advance

Driving across the Souleuvre river less than two miles west of the German stronghold of Le Beny-Bocage, the British had advanced 11 miles south of their Sunday jump-off area around Caumont and were some 22 miles inland from the English Channel. This was the deepest British penetration of the invasion.

Canadian troops on the left flank east of the Orne river captured the bitterly-defended Nazi stronghold at Tilly-La-Campagne, more than five miles south of Caen.

A British column to the westward joined hands with American forces at a point southwest of the Eveque forest, six miles southeast of Torigny-Sur-Vire.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's tank advance beyond Avranches puts the Americans in position to strike 100 miles across the Brittany peninsula base or to turn east toward the (Please Turn to Page 5)

U. S. troops cut Guam in half, from Agaña town to Pago bay, and a Nimitz spokesman declared "the worst is over on Guam—most of the difficult fighting is behind us."

On Tinian, Marines and Infantry pinned the Japanese garrison into a pocket on the island's south end, where they were being ground to bits by bombs, Navy gunfire and advancing troops. Enemy dead in the Marianas to date include 2,206 on Guam nearly 3,000 in Tinian, more than 20,000 on Saipan.

5 German Divisions Are Defending Italian City

Rome, Aug. 1 (AP)—Eighth Army troops are making slow, methodical progress in their advance on Florence against five German divisions fighting a desperate last stand battle before the Tuscan capital, Allied headquarters announced today.

South of the city the Germans lunged out with fierce counterattacks along a wide semicircular front which now forms their defense line.

"It is clear the enemy is determined to make a real stand as long as he is able, but the Eighth Army's advance is relentlessly forcing him from successive strongpoints," headquarters said.

The Germans are using three of the best divisions at their disposal in Italy for guarding the approaches to Florence. They have the support of Tiger tanks and are using a new type of booby trap—grenades set off by wires stretched across roads at a height to catch the airdrops of radio-equipped vehicles. The grenades themselves are tied to trees and explode over the vehicles.

West of Highway Two, Eighth Army troops still hold San Michele despite a counterattack in which five German tanks entered the La Romola, two miles east of San Michele, and the village of San Andrea after repulsing a counter-attack there.

East of Highway Two south Africans patrolling the crossings strongly defended. Still further east British troops repulsed five counterattacks against their positions on Mount Scalari and their forward patrols reached San Martino.

North of Arezzo the enemy was pushed farther up the precipitous Arezzo Bibena valley to the Arno Gorge, three miles from Subbiano.

News Collected At Random

AERIAL BATTLE

Technical Sergeant Donald Omar Price, son of Mrs. Helen Price, 100 Baltimore street, radio gunner on a B-24, a four-motored Yankee bomber, recently wrote of his experience when his crippled bomber was attacked by a formation of Nazi fighter planes while returning from a bomber mission out of Italy.

Sergeant Price wrote in part as follows:

"We took off and joined the formation as usual. After while we noticed that No. 3 engine was covered with oil. It was throwing oil off something terrific. We kept on going, but around an hour later, when we were much nearer the target, the oil pressure of No. 3 engine became so low we had to feather it. Feathering is the process of turning the engine off and then changing the pitch of the propeller blade so that it cuts directly into the wind and will not revolve, thereby cutting down wind resistance.

"We were so near the target that we decided to go on. Normally we can get along on three engines but a couple other engines began acting up and throwing oil a little. We began dropping back and losing altitude very gradually until our formation was out of sight and we were all alone. Near the target we spotted another formation so we dropped our bombs (and ruined a beautiful potato patch and one road) to lighten our load, so we could try to climb into the formation for protection. It was a little behind us and off to the left.

"We managed to get pretty near it but a little below, near enough for some protection. When they got to their target and dropped their bombs (they messed up a rail yard something terrific) they, too, pulled away from us leaving us by ourselves.

SCOUTS GUESTS OF TWO CLUBS

Seventeen members of Troop 77 were guests of the Rotary and Lions club at a joint picnic session at the water works Monday evening. The troop is sponsored by the two service clubs. Three scouts were unable to be present.

During the afternoon scouts and some club members enjoyed swimming, boating, horseshoe pitching and soft ball games. After the picnic supper there were soft ball games and a horseshoe pitching tournament.

The new troop charter was presented to Scoutmaster Jack Cessna and Glenn I. Bream and Z. Musselman, vice president of the Lions and Rotary clubs respectively, by Dr. Fred Tilberg, President of the Black Walnut Gettysburg scout district.

Patrol leaders reported that since the close of school members of the troop had earned more than $600 in the orchards of the county. One patrol reported that it had earned $400 since the close of school.

Four patrols presented comedy skits. This was followed by a general song-fest.

Disorganized Boche Troops Are Surrendering In Drove; Germans Burning Warsaw

(By The Associated Press)

London, Aug. 1—Warsaw was reported in flames tonight as Russian masses pressed upon its northeast suburbs behind a deluge of shells and bombs.

Farther north, other Red Army forces forced the Nazi defenders of East Prussia back along a 143-mile front to within 11.8 miles of the pre-war frontier of that cradle of German militarism.

Billows of black smoke were reported rolling from the ancient Polish capital, indicating the Germans were putting it to the torch in preparation for evacuation.

Soviets Attacking Praga

Driving in from three directions under hundreds of red-starred planes, Russian and Polish troops today attacked Praga, industrial suburb of Warsaw across the Vistula river east of the Capital.

Russian fliers reported demolitions exploding in the heart of Warsaw and Izvestia said "The Hitlerites in their fury are burning and blowing up many buildings." A front dispatch said at least one German Infantry division already had been routed in the battle for Warsaw.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, himself of Polish descent, personally directed the Red Army's mammoth assault on the metropolitan area of the Polish capital of 1,265,700 from an advanced headquarters.

One of the greatest artillery concentrations of the entire eastern front ripped into German entrenchments on the edge of Praga.

Warsaw, first United Nations capital to hear the roar of liberating cannon and the keystone of Germany's east wall, also was threatened by flanking maneuvers in which the Red Army struggled to bridge the broad Vistula southeast of the city. Another column fought close to the stream on the northwest.

Front dispatches indicated the battle for Warsaw would be fiercely prolonged by the German command which was reported under orders by Hitler to stand without retreat.

(A Berlin broadcast declared Warsaw remained calm but said "the roar of a tank battle can be heard in the city.")

The assault on Warsaw virtually was matched in importance by a three-pronged Red Army drive against East Prussia in a sector now 143 miles wide. Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's command advanced in to 31 miles and approached within 11.8 miles of East Prussia proper.

ALLIES BLAST
PATH TO OPEN
NORMANDY PUSH

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)
The magnificent Allied drive on the Cotentin peninsula has given us a fair answer to the old question of "what's in a name?" by turning the "battle of Normandy" into the "battle of France."

There's plenty in that new name. It's the difference between the confined area of the peninsula, which has been restricted to the Anglo-American operations, and the freedom of the open hinterland leading to Paris—and Berlin. It's the difference between slow, grinding progress toward war's end and a quick rush to match the crushing speed of the Red armies in the east.

Room To Expand
In short, the significance of this victory is that the western Allies through superb effort finally have won sufficient space in which to develop the vast forces at their disposal. That's of the utmost importance. We've been too crowded heretofore to put all our strength into a blow.

What happened yesterday was that the Americans in their great thrust through Granville and Avranches ripped open the coastal anchor on the southwest flank of the German line which ran approximately across the base of the whole peninsula. This left the enemy coastal wing dangling dangerously in the air. Simultaneously the hard-hitting Canadian and British forces, on the other end of the Allied front, surged forward and leveled up the line.

The sum of this operation is that the whole German line is in danger of being outflanked on both wings and suffered a major disaster. This threat is increased by the fact that the Allies now are in position to use their big contingent of swift moving tanks to better advantage, since they are leaving the terrible hedgerow terrain behind.

Nazis On Spot

German Field Marshal von Kluge now is nearly phoned on the horns of a dilemma. His inclination must be to fling in fresh forces and try to block the Allied advance before it spreads out, but if he does that he will be weakening the defenses of vulnerable places along the coast where the Allies might swoop in and land.

For instance, the Hitlerites are maintaining strong forces in the Cales-Boulogne area, on the narrow strip of the English channel, where they fear an amphibious assault. There's small doubt the Allies are ready to take advantage of any weakness which they deem suitable for exploitation.

Allies Hold Option
As things are developing in Normandy, the Allies have the option of driving directly for Paris, or first of making a quick stab southward to slice off the Brest peninsula. This latter course would give them the second finest port in all France to be used in conjunction with neighboring Cherbourg to pour troops and materiel into France for the all-out push towards Germany.

This is one of the big moments in the invasion of France. Things should move rapidly from now on.

Hold Pair For
Surety Of Peace

Bazel Woodward and Herman Beamer, both of Gettysburg and both arrested and fined over the week-end on disorderly conduct counts, were taken into custody again Monday evening by state and local officers on surety of the peace charges laid by Kathryn Woodward, Eckenrode, Gettysburg, said to be a cousin of one of the defendants. The charge was laid before Justice of the Peace John H. Bashore.

Mrs. Eckenrode alleges that Miss Woodward and Beamer threatened to "beat her up" after she refused to serve them at Mitchell's restaurant, Monday evening, where she is a waitress. She said she acted under orders from the management of the restaurant.

The pair was arrested by P. H. Harold K. Trout of the state police and Borough Officer Clark Staley and were jailed in default of $300 bail each. Later in the evening bail was posted and they were released for a hearing at 8:30 p. m., Wednesday evening.

Here And There

ourselves. You can imagine how we strained our eyes looking for fighters.

"Getting near the coast again we spotted a formation coming down from a different direction and we changed our course to try to get near them. We found out later it was our own group, though I don't know how we happened to come across them again.

"When we got out over the sea again (it's no secret that the more you fly over water the less risk you are going to get) we saw fighters looking for a weak spot in our group which was now directly ahead of us. Then four of the fighters saw us way back of the formation, a straggler, a perfect set-up for them. They left the formation and came back to work on us. At the same time three fighters came in from the rear. Some of the boys in the formation were able to see the first three attacks on us before they got out of sight. The first attack, three fighters, lined up and came in from the tail. Don Swigley, tail gunner, Marion Fielder, right waist gunner, and Joseph Landers, top turret gunner, all poured lead into the Jerries. Swigley says he could see their self-exploding cannon shells getting closer as they came in. They looked like miniature fleas.

"The second attack, a single plane, came in from 10 o'clock a little high. Landers and I could see our tracers hitting it. The third attack, four fighters, lined up and came in from the tail. The tail turret, top turret, and the waist (I'm left waist) guns all opened up on them. From then on attacks were too numerous to mention or keep count of. They came from all directions, but mostly from the tail, so Swigley had a good time shooting at them. One plane in the back of us was seen to go down with heavy black smoke trailing. Must have been burning something terrific. Another plane out at 9 o'clock was seen to go spiraling down. Others were known to be damaged. We could see our tracers hitting and going through. It would be hard to tell how many.

"All these attacks lasted only around twenty minutes. Our score: 1 enemy aircraft sure, 1 probable, and 2 damaged.

"During the attacks we had been ordered to put on our parachutes. We thought sure we would have to bail out and start swimming. Also during the attacks we unfathered No. 3 engine. Maybe we thought that would make them think we were just a decoy and were luring them on. We couldn't get any power out of it so it didn't help any then. The fighters may have been low on gasoline and so had to leave us. Or maybe they saw we were losing altitude and figured we were goners.

"Anyway, a little after the fighters left I went up to the flight deck (that's where the pilot, co-pilot, top turret and radio table is located) to help out as best I could. After coming down from nearly 20,000, where we were before feathering our engine, to 700 feet the co-pilot and engineer managed to coax a little powder from No. 3 engine. I also called back to the waist gunner on interphone to throw out all non-essential equipment to lighten our load and they really stripped the plane.

"At last we began gaining altitude again until we finally got up to 2,500 feet. We thought sure we were going to have to "ditch" (crash land in water) and get out before it sank. All this time I had been sending out SOS's and sending in our approximate position. At last I was able to radio in "we think we can make it" with our altitude and our speed.

U.S. Competes With Private Business

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Byrd economy committee said formally today that government-owned corporations have been set up in competition with private business "with little thought as to their advantages or disadvantages."

The report recommended that operations of 44 such corporations, having $3,000,000,000 of borrowing power, and $16,500,000,000 of liabilities, be immediately placed under the over-all control of congress. Some should be liquidated at once, it added.

Summarizing its findings after a two-year study, the joint house-senate executive committee headed by Senator Byrd (D-Va) said the corporations employed 70,699 persons in this and other countries, had outstanding loans of $6,500,000,000, and had incurred operating losses of $103,000,000 as of June 30, 1943.

Germans Fleeing
From Land Of Turks

Ankara, Aug. 1 (AP)—The overnight express train from Istanbul arrived here this morning packed with Germans and their families.

K. OF C. CHAPLAIN
Scranton, Aug. 1 (AP)—Robert J. White, Williamsport, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, today announced the reappointment of Bishop William J. Hefey, head of the Scranton Catholic diocese, as state chaplain of the Knights of Columbus in Pennsylvania. White also announced appointment of Harry Murphy, Wilkes-Barre, as Deputy for the 14th K. of C. District in the state.

and landed. Our hydraulic system was gone so we didn't have much brakes. Perdegast, ball turret gunner, got the ingenious idea. He fastened a parachute to each waist window and just as the plane touched the ground they were thrown out. That helped brake the plane considerably when they blossomed out. When the plane stopped falling and we were all out, we were able to relax once more.

"The fact that we got back was due to a co-pilot who really had guts. Not our regular co-pilot, but Lt. Carroll, assistant operations officer was flying as co-pilot that day. And much credit goes to the Navigator (not our regular crew either) Lt. Murrel who did much more than navigate.

"Well that was my most exciting mission to date and I doubt if I ever get another one like it. Frankly, I'd just as soon spend a nice dull day back in Gettysburg, but that will have to wait."

Sergeant Price has been in the Army Air Force since December, 1942.

ALLIES BLAST PATH TO OPEN NORMANDY PUSH

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)
The magnificent Allied drive on the Cotentin peninsula has given us a fair answer to the old question of "what's in a name?" by turning the "battle of Normandy" into the "battle of France."

There's plenty in that new name. It's the difference between the confined area of the peninsula, which has badly restricted the Anglo-American operations, and the freedom of the open hinterland leading to Paris—and Berlin. It's the difference between slow, grueling progress toward war's end and a quick rush to match the crushing and speed of the Red armies in the east.

Room To Expand
In short, the significance of this victory is that the western Allies through superb effort finally have won sufficient space in which to deploy the vast forces at their disposal. That's of the utmost importance. We've been too crowded heretofore to put all our strength into a blow.

What happened yesterday was that the Americans in their great thrust through Granville and Avranches ripped out the coastal anchor on the southwest flank of the German line which ran approximately across the base of the whole peninsula. This left the enemy coastal wing dangling dangerously in the air. Simultaneously the hard-hitting Canadian and British forces, on the other end of the Allied front, surged forward and leveled up the line.

The sum of this operation is that the whole German line is in danger of being outflanked on both wings and suffered a major disaster. This threat is increased by the fact that the Allies now are in position to use their big contingent of swift moving tanks to better advantage, since they are leaving the terrible hedge-row terrain behind.

German Field Marshal von Kluge now is neatly pinioned on the horns of a dilemma. His inclination must be to fling in fresh forces and try to block the Allied advance before it spreads out, but if he does that he will be weakening the defenses of vulnerable places along the coast where the Allies might swoop in and land.

For instance, the Hitlerites are maintaining strong forces in the Calais-Boulogne area, on the narrowest part of the English channel, where they fear an amphibious assault. There's small doubt the Allies are ready to take advantage of any weakness which they deem suitable for exploitation.

Allies Hold Option
As things are developing in Normandy, the Allies have the option of driving directly for Paris, or first of making a quick stab southward to slice off the Brest peninsula. This latter course would give them the second finest port in all France to be used in conjunction with neighboring Cherbourg to pour troops and materiel into France for the all-out push towards Germany.

This is one of the big moments in the invasion of France. Things should move rapidly from now on.

Hold Pair For Surety Of Peace

Hazel Woodward and Berman Beamer, both of Gettysburg and both arrested and fined over the week-end on disorderly conduct counts, were taken into custody again Monday evening by state and local officers on surety of the peace charges laid by Kathryn Woodward Eckenrode, Gettysburg, said to be a cousin of one of the defendants. ourselves. You can imagine how we strained our eyes looking for fighters.

"Getting near the coast again we spotted a formation coming down from a different direction and we changed our course to try to get near them. We found out later it was our own group, though I don't know how we happened to come across them again.

"When we got out over the sea again (it's no secret that the more you fly over water the less flak you are going to get) we saw fighters looking for a weak spot in our group which was now directly ahead of us. Then four of the fighters saw us way back of the formation, a straggler, a perfect set-up for them. They left the formation and came back to work on us. At the same time three fighters came in from the rear. Some of the boys in the formation were able to see the first three attacks on us before they got out of sight. The first attack, three fighters, lined up and came in from the tail. Don Swigley, tail gunner, the Marion Fielder, right waist gunner, and Joseph Landers, top turret gunner, all poured lead into the Jerries. Swigley says he could see their self-exploding cannon shells getting closer as they came in. They looked like miniature flak.

"The second attack, a single plane, came in from 10 o'clock a little high. Landers and I could see our tracers hitting it. The third attack, four fighters, lined up and came in from the tail. The tail turret, top turret, and the waist (I'm left waist) guns all opened up on them. From then on attacks were too numerous to mention or keep count of. They came from all directions, but mostly from the tail, so Swigley had a good time shooting at them. One plane in the back of us was seen to do down with heavy black smoke trailing. Must have been burning something terrific. Another plane out at 9 o'clock was seen to go spiraling down. Others were known to be damaged. We could see our tracers hitting and going through. It would be hard to tell how many. "All these attacks lasted only around twenty minutes. Our score: 1 enemy aircraft sure, 1 probable, and 2 damaged.

"During the attacks we had been ordered to put on our parachutes. We thought sure we would have to bail out and start swimming. Also during the attacks we unfathered No. 3 engine. Maybe we thought that would make them think we were just a decoy and were luring them on. We couldn't get any power out of it so it didn't help any then. The fighters may have been low on gasoline and so had to leave us. Or maybe they saw we were losing altitude and figured we were goners.

"Anyway, a little after the fighters left I went up to the flight deck (that's where the pilot, co-pilot, top turret and radio table is located) to help out as best I could. After coming down from nearly 20,000, where we were before feathering our engine, to 700 feet the co-pilot and engineer managed to coax a little power from No. 3 engine. I also called back to the waist gunner on inter-phone to throw out all non-essential equipment to lighten our load and they really stripped the plane.

"At last we began gaining altitude again until we finally got up to 2,500 feet. We thought sure we were going to have to 'ditch' (crash land in water) and get out before it sank. All this time I had been sending out SOS's and sending in our approximate position. At last I was able to radio in 'we think we can make it' with our altitude and our speed.

"Finally, we sighted land once more. I sent in and received a position fix, but it didn't help much because I couldn't get the time of the fix. We finally spotted a familiar airfield. circled

U.S. Competes With Private Business

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Byrd economy committee said formally today that government-owned corporations have been set up in competition with private business "with little thought as to their advantages or disadvantages."

The report recommended that operations of 44 such corporations, having $3,000,000,000 of borrowing power and $16,500,000,000 of liabilities, be immediately placed under the over-all control of congress. Some should be liquidated at once, it added.

Summarizing its findings after a two-year study, the joint house-senate executive committee headed by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said the corporations employed 70,000 persons in this and other countries, had outstanding loans of $5,500,000,000, and had incurred operating losses of $103,000,000 as of June 30, 1943.

and landed. Our hydraulic system was gone so we didn't have much brakes. Pendergast, ball turret gunner, got the ingenious idea. He fastened a parachute to each waist window and just as the plane touched the ground they were thrown out. That helped brake the plane considerably when they blossomed out. When the plane stopped falling and we were all out, we were able to relax once more.

"The fact that we got back was due to a co-pilot who really had guts. Not our regular co-pilot, but Lt. Carroll, assistant operations officer was flying as co-pilot that day. And much credit goes to the Navigator (not our regular crew either) Lt. Murrel who did much more than navigate.

"Well that was my most exciting mission to date and I doubt if I ever get

LIFE AND MONEY
There is a gold star in a window near.
And passing by
I think: "To match that woman's silent tear.
What loss have I?"

"Was my bond money brave and clean and true.
As once was he?"
Did it have dreams of what its strength could do,
And life might be?"

"Did it know love and laughter, dance and song,
And skill and pride?"
Would it have died to save the world from wrong.
As that boy died?"

"No, it went forth, paid out, to be repaid.

Never has it known cause to be afraid
Or suffer pain.

And I shall smile.
But those who loved that lad, for him, will yearn
Through life's long while."

Today's Talk
UNCIVILIZED MAN
Henry D. Thoreau points out in his writings that man alone is feared by the birds, with the exception of a few varieties of birds of prey. He says that they play, romp and feed among animals and have no fear—but they shy at man!

No wonder that this is so self-evident a fact when all through history we have the illustrations of man killing man—a procedure, certainly, that gives no proof of the civilized nature of man.

We have been created, as is stated in the Bible, "in the image of God," but there much of the likeness disappears. Moses wrote out what the world looks upon as universal, God-created laws, and one of them says, "Thou shalt not kill!" But so-called civilized peoples keep on killing their own, and keep on saturating the world with hate and distrust. When are we to become civilized, according to the precepts taught by Christ?

The hunger of the world is for just a little human kindness. It takes redder blood to live than it does to die. All history proves this. This is going to be a far different world after this tragic world war. Men are going to think more as human beings and less as beasts. The worth of the soul is going to take a higher valuation. Money in the bank is going to count for less than goodness in the heart. The "Golden Rule" needs dusting off—and needs to be put to universal use.

The great lesson for all the world these coming years is to learn how to live, and to let live. It cannot be done by keeping bare alive in the world, however. In the words of Christ: "I give you a new commandment: that ye love one another." Simple enough, isn't it? And practical, too. I only needs application.

Shall these precious dead of ours, have died in vain? This is a world of individuals. The responsibility rests upon every one of us. If we hate our neighbor, how are we to expect that nations shall live in peace? The solution of the world lies in man's great nobility.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will be the subject of an experiment known as "Possession."

DEWEY TO MEET WAR LEADERSHIP ISSUE IN FIGHT

By JACK BELL

Enroute West with Dewey, Aug. 1 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey offered today a GOP regime he contends will be better prepared to deal with the problems of peace at home as an answer to Democratic pleas for retention in office of President Roosevelt as "commander-in-chief."

Traveling toward Springfield, Ill., for talks with Gov. Dwight Green and other state leaders before the opening of a Republican governors' conference in St. Louis tomorrow, the presidential nominee left little doubt he is ready to challenge the war leadership issue his opponents have raised.

While Dewey did not specifically mention the commander-in-chief issue, Gov. Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, a retired major general and World War I veteran, said this country never had a president "who contemplated he was actually handling the Army and Navy."

Tries Something New

Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, told a reporter emphasis would be laid in the GOP campaign on the contention that the winning of the war should be left in the hands of military leaders.

With Illinois Republicans preparing to attempt to duplicate the reception that Pittsburgh gave to the nominee, Dewey scheduled another long round of conferences similar to those through which he hurried in Pennsylvania.

Trying something new in presidential campaigning, Dewey made no public speeches but talked, ate and shook hands with an estimated 5,500 persons informally in a Pittsburgh hotel.

To Visit Lincoln's Tomb

He and Mrs. Dewey took time out at one point to join a small group in singing "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Martin, whose anniversary was observed at a luncheon. Two parades through Pittsburgh streets, from and to the railroad station, gave the public its chance to see the nominee.

In Springfield, Dewey planned to lay a wreath on the tomb and visit the home of Abraham Lincoln. Then he scheduled talks with members of the Illinois congressional delegation and with leaders of Republican women's organizations, of negro groups, of labor unions, of service men's business and industrial organizations.

Here he expected to repeat his routine of listening to the problems of each group, commenting briefly and storing away information for coming major speeches which he and his running mate, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, are expected to undertake early next month.

Edward Hartman after spending four weeks at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hartman, of Ringtown, has returned to his home. He was accompanied home by his grandparents who are spending some time at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Hartman.

Fred Crouse, of Norfolk, spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hobson Crouse, and family.

Miss Lois Light, of Newport, is spending some time at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Ada Lester. Mrs. Hobson Crouse and daughter, Betty, made a business trip to York recently.

OIL PRICE RISE EFFECTIVE TODAY

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—A 75 cents a barrel increase in the price of Pennsylvania grade crude oil becomes effective today, the largest increase under the premium payment plan announced July 5 by Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson.

Paid by the government on oil produced from marginal and strip wells, the premiums are expected by the Office of Price Administration to encourage the producers to prolong the life of the wells, improve their operating efficiency, revive shut-in wells, institute secondary recovery projects and in general increase the nation's oil production.

Pennsylvania grade crude oil is found in only four states, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio and West Virginia. Smaller premiums will be paid on oil from Louisiana and in other areas.

Vinson said the increase over maximum prices will be paid by the first purchaser of the oil from the producer and owners of royalty interests. This first purchaser then applies to the Defense Supplies Corp. and the premium is refunded to him. Thus maximum crude oil prices are not increased on sales other than those made by producers and owners of royalty interests.

The burning of coal was prohibited in London in 1936 because of the smoke it produced.

Kansas City Is Ready For V-Day

Kansas City, Aug. 1 (AP)—Kansas City's merchants won't be unprepared for the pandemonium on V-day—the day Germany gives up the fight.

The Merchants' association has decreed that all downtown stores must close within minutes after the first word is received, the employees are to put cash, records and valuable merchandise in protected places—and then go out and join in the fun.

Some merchants already have built sectional board walls which can be erected in a few moments to protect their plate glass windows against pressure of celebrating throngs.

Movies and taverns are planning similar action.

Other cities throughout the country are expected to adopt the scheme, the association reported.

If the signal is received on Sunday or a holiday or after 2 o'clock on the afternoon of a business day, the stores will remain closed all next day.

DECISIONS ON FISH AND CLARK SET FOR TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

Two of "Congress' most colorful figures come up with renomination ties against tough opposition today—Rep. Hamilton Fish in New York's 29th District and Senator Bennett Clark in Missouri.

Fish's chances are affected not alone by the strength of his opponent, Attorney Augustus W. Bennett of Newburgh, but also by the fact that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell L. Willkie have called for his defeat.

Fish, outspoken Republican who has been in the House since 1920, was quoted in a newspaper article as having said that Jews are "more or less for the New Deal" and that it would be better "if they split their vote between the two major parties."

Dewey's own campaign was marked by conferences in Pittsburgh yesterday with political, business, farm, veterans and labor leaders. These, he said, were intended to speed up "the too-long delayed preparations for reconversion" of industry as war needs slacken.

Brownell's Prediction

After a stop in Springfield, Ill., Dewey is to arrive at St. Louis tomorrow for a long-heralded meeting with the country's 25 other Republican governors.

From the Republicans' national chairman, Herbert Brownell, Jr., there came, meanwhile, a prediction that Dewey will carry at least 25 states with 311 electoral votes against President Roosevelt in November. The victor needs but 266.

Senator Clark's opponent for the Democratic nomination is Roy McKelrick, Missouri's attorney general who has campaigned as a pro-Roosevelt man, attacking Clark's record on prewar foreign policy.

Clark, who at times has dissented vigorously from administration actions during his 11 years in the Senate, has the support of Senator Harry S. Truman, the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Clark's Challenge

Governor Forrest C. Donnell is one of seven Republicans contesting in Missouri primaries for their party's senatorial nomination. Nominees also are being selected for 13 House seats. New Yorkers are nominating for 45 House seats but the Fish-Bennett race overshadows all the others.

Kansas Republicans and Democrats and Virginia Democrats likewise hold primaries today, Virginians voting on candidates for nine House memberships.

Rep. Clare Booth Luce (R-Conn.), announcing he would run for reelection, said her opponents had contended she "might be purged by Sidney Hillman's political action committee" and that was a challenge "I can not ignore."

SEEK PAIN-FREE SWITCHOVER TO PEACE ECONOMY

(Editor's note: This is the second of three stories on the home front demobilization problem—what Congress has done, what the President has done, and what remains to be done.)

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—Congress is in a sweat now to prepare this country for a pain-free switchover to a prosperous life when Germany folds up.

Government and Congress already have made some efforts to smooth the way. Others lie ahead. Here is a general outline of past performances and future intentions:

Last February, at the request of the White House, Bernard M. Baruch and John Hancock outlined a plan for war and postwar policies.

What Has Happened

It dealt mainly with the financial problems of getting back on a sound peacetime basis, although recognizing there was a human side to demobilization.

Following are some of the Baruch-Hancock suggestions and what happened to them:

1. Immediate start on disposing of surplus government materials which range from huge war plans to adhesive tape.

The President appointed Will Clayton as surplus property administrator. Surpluses of all kinds are now being disposed of at the rate of 25 million dollars weekly.

Authority After War

(But Democratic and Republican Senate leaders say Clayton was appointed under the President's wartime powers, that therefore his authority might be questioned after the war. Both sides now are talking of giving him authority by law through Congressional action.)

2. Tackling the problem of human demobilization.

(The President appointed Brig. Gen. Frank Hines, head of the Veterans administration, to direct re-training and re-employment. The Senators speak of acting to give him authority by Congressional act, too.)

3. Arrangements for quick settlement, through government payment, of cancelled war contracts so contractors can turn the money to civilian production.

After some months' Congress

MRS. DEWEY NOT TO SEEK CAREER

Pittsburgh, Aug. 1 (AP)—As far as pretty Frances Hutt Dewey is concerned, a woman's place is still very much in the home.

"It has always been my position, at least for myself, that I can be most useful in my home just by making a home and such, the best, and most restful I know," the wife of the Republican presidential nominee told a press conference here yesterday.

Replying to questions, Mrs. Dewey said she "never had and never intended to" make speeches or write a column.

"I have a keen interest in public affairs but speeches I leave to my husband," she said.

She emphasized that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is the boss in his family. "His opinions are mine," she declared. "His beliefs are mine. If mine ever are different than his, I tell only him about it."

passed a contract cancellation act to assure quick government pay-offs.

This act was passed after a protest by the three big labor organizations—CIO, AFL and the railroad unions—that it was piecemeal legislation to benefit business while ignoring workers.

Labor favored a bill sponsored by Senator Kilgore (D-W. Va.) which would guarantee unemployment compensation on a general scale to war workers between the time they lost a closed-out war job and found a peace job.

Kilgore tried to have this made part of the contract cancellation law but failed. Kilgore has his bill back in Congress. Senator Murray (D-Mont.) has one, too.

UNCIVILIZED MAN
Henry D. Thoreau points out in his writings that man alone is feared by the birds, with the exception of a few varieties of birds of prey. He says that they play, romp and feed among animals and have no fear—but they shy at man!

No wonder that this is so self-evident a fact when all through history we have the illustrations of man killing man—a procedure, certainly, that gives no proof of the civilized nature of man.

We have been created, as is stated in the Bible, "in the image of God," but there is the likeness of the beast. Moses wrote out what the world looks upon as universal, God-created laws, and one of them says, "Thou shalt not kill!" But so-called civilized peoples keep on killing their own, and keep on saturating the world with hate and distrust. When are we to become civilized, according to the precepts taught by Christ?

The hunger of the world is for just a little human kindness. It takes redder blood to live than it does to die. All history proves this. This is going to be a far different world after this tragic world war. Men are going to think more as human beings and less as beasts. The worth of the soul is going to take a higher valuation. Money in the bank is going to count for less than bigness in the heart. The "Golden Rule" needs dusting off—and needs to be put to universal use.

The great lesson for all the world these coming years is to learn how to live, and to let live. It cannot be done by keeping hate alive in the world, however. In the words of Christ: "I give you a new commandment, that ye love one another." Simple enough, isn't it? And practical, too. It only needs application.

Shall these precious dead of ours have died in vain? This is a world of individuals. The responsibility rests upon every one of us. If we hate our neighbor, how are we to expect that nations shall love one another? The salvation of the world lies in man's devout turning to God.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Enjoyment Without Possession."

DEWEY TO MEET WAR LEADERSHIP ISSUE IN FIGHT

By JACK BELL
Enroute West with Dewey, Aug. 1 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey offered today a GOP regime he contends will be better prepared to deal with the problems of peace at home as an answer to Democratic pleas for retention in office of President Roosevelt as "commander-in-chief."

Traveling toward Springfield, Ill., for talks with Gov. Dwight Green and other state leaders before the opening of a Republican governors' conference in St. Louis tomorrow, the presidential nominee left little doubt he is ready to challenge the war leadership issue his opponents have raised.

While Dewey did not specifically mention the commander-in-chief issue, Gov. Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, a retired major general and World War I veteran, said this country never had a president "who contemplated he was actually handling the Army and Navy."

Tries Something New
Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, told a reporter emphasis would be laid in the GOP campaign on the contention that the winning of the war should be left in the hands of military leaders.

With Illinois Republicans preparing to attempt to duplicate the reception that Pittsburgh gave to the nominee, Dewey scheduled another long round of conferences similar to those through which he hurried in Pennsylvania.

Trying something new in presidential campaigning, Dewey made no public speeches but talked, ate and shook hands with an estimated 5,500 persons informally in a Pittsburgh hotel.

To Visit Lincoln's Tomb
He and Mrs. Dewey took time out at one point to join a small group in singing "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Martin, whose anniversary was observed at a luncheon. Two parades through Pittsburgh streets, from and to the railroad station, gave the public its chance to see the nominee.

In Springfield, Dewey planned to lay a wreath on the tomb and visit the home of Abraham Lincoln. Then he scheduled talks with members of the Illinois congressional delegation and with leaders of Republican women's organizations, of negro groups, of labor unions, of service men's business and industrial organizations.

Here he expected to repeat his routine of listening to the problems of each group, commenting briefly and storing away information for coming major speeches which he and his running mate, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, are expected to undertake early next month.

OIL PRICE RISE EFFECTIVE TODAY

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—A 75 cents a barrel increase in the price of Pennsylvania grade crude oil becomes effective today, the largest increase under the premium payment plan announced July 6 by Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson.

Paid by the government on oil produced from marginal and strip-wells, the premiums are expected by the Office of Price Administration to encourage the producers to prolong the life of the wells, improve their operating efficiency, revive shut-in wells, institute secondary recovery projects and in general increase the nation's oil production.

Pennsylvania grade crude oils are found in only four states, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio and West Virginia. Smaller premiums will be paid on oil from low-yield wells in other areas.

Letter to the Editor

Jacksonville, Fla.
Dear Sir:
I wish to thank you for sending me the weekly edition of The Times and to inform you of my new address, so that the paper will reach me without any unnecessary delay.

I certainly enjoy getting the paper because it helps let me know what is going on back in the home town.

I am now stationed at the Naval Aviation Technical Training center, Jacksonville, Florida, and here I am to receive 20 weeks of schooling (grade A) to prepare me for the job of being an aviation electrician's mate.

So I would appreciate very much if you would start sending my copy of The Times to my address that I have at the end of this short letter.

Thanking you very much I remain

OXYGEN TENT

Wallingford, Conn. (AP)—Thousands of fish slowly suffocating in the reservoir here have been saved by the prompt application of artificial respiration by the fire department. Fish were found floating on top of the water, gasping for breath. The Fish and Game Dept. said it was lack of oxygen. Five fire engines were stationed along the lake and by pumping water into the air in a fine spray they supplied the deficient element.

Kansas City Is Ready For V-Day

Kansas City, Aug. 1 (AP)—Kansas City's merchants won't be unprepared for the pandemonium on V-day—the day Germany gives up the fight.

The Merchants association has decreed that all downtown stores must close within minutes after the first word is received, the employees are to put cash, records and valuable merchandise in protected places—and then go out and join in the fun.

Some merchants already have built sectional board walls which can be erected in a few moments to protect their plate glass windows against pressure of celebrating throngs.

Movies and taverns are planning similar action.

Other cities throughout the country are expected to adopt the scheme, the association reported.

If the signal is received on Sunday or a holiday or after 2 o'clock on the afternoon of a business day, the stores will remain closed all next day.

DECISIONS ON FISH AND CLARK SET FOR TODAY

(By The Associated Press)
Two of Congress' most colorful figures come up with renomination tries against tough opposition today—Rep. Hamilton Fish in New York's 29th District and Senator Bennett Clark in Missouri.

Fish's chances are affected not alone by the strength of his opponent, Attorney Augustus W. Bennett of Newburgh, but also by the fact that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell L. Willkie have called for his defeat.

Fish, outspoken Republican who has been in the House since 1920, was quoted in a newspaper article as having said that Jews are "more or less for the New Deal" and that it would be better "if they split their vote between the two major parties."

Dewey's own campaign was marked by conferences in Pittsburgh yesterday with political, business, farm, veterans and labor leaders. These, he said, were intended to speed up "the too-long delayed preparations for reconversion" of industry as war needs slacken.

Brownell's Prediction
After a stop in Springfield, Ill., Dewey is to arrive at St. Louis tomorrow for a long-heralded meeting with the country's 25 other Republican governors.

From the Republicans' national chairman, Herbert Brownell, Jr., there came, meanwhile, a prediction that Dewey will carry at least 25 states with 311 electoral votes against President Roosevelt in November. The victor needs but 266.

Senator Clark's opponent for the Democratic nomination is Roy McKittick, Missouri's attorney general who has campaigned as a pro-Roosevelt man, attacking Clark's record on prewar foreign policy.

Clark, who at times has dissented vigorously from administration actions during his 11 years in the Senate, has the support of Senator Harry S. Truman, the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Clare's Challenge
Governor Forrest C. Donnell is one of seven Republicans contesting in Missouri primaries for their party's senatorial nomination. Nominees also are being selected for 13 House seats. New Yorkers are nominating for 45 House seats but the Fish-Bennett race overshadows all the others.

Kansas Republicans and Democrats and Virginia Democrats likewise hold primaries today, Virginians voting on candidates for nine House memberships.

Rep. Clare Booth Luce (R-Conn.), announcing she would run for reelection, said her opponents had contended she "might be purged by Sidney Hillman's political action committee" and that was a challenge "I can not ignore."

SEEK PAIN-FREE SWITCHOVER TO PEACE ECONOMY

(Editor's note: This is the second of three stories on the home front demobilization problem—what Congress has done, what the President has done, and what remains to be done.)

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—Congress is in a sweat now to prepare this country for a pain-free switchover to a prosperous life when Germany folds up.

Government and Congress already have made some efforts to smooth the way. Others lie ahead. Here is a general outline of past performances and future intentions:

Last February, at the request of the White House, Bernard M. Baruch and John Hancock outlined a plan for war and postwar policies.

What Has Happened
It dealt mainly with the financial problems of getting back on a sound peacetime basis, although recognizing there was a human side to demobilization.

Following are some of the Baruch-Hancock suggestions and what happened to them:

1. Immediate start on disposing of surplus government materials which range from huge war plants to adhesive tape.

The President appointed Will Clayton as surplus property administrator. Surpluses of all kinds are now being disposed of at the rate of 25 million dollars weekly.

Authority After War
(But Democratic and Republican Senate leaders say Clayton was appointed under the President's wartime powers, that therefore his authority might be questioned after the war. Both sides now are talking of giving him authority by law through Congressional action.)

2. Tackling the problem of human demobilization.

(The President appointed Brig. Gen. Frank Hines, head of the Veterans administration, to direct re-training and re-employment. The Senators speak of acting to give him authority by Congressional act, too.)

3. Arrangements for quick settlement, through government payment, of cancelled war contracts so contractors can turn the money to civilian production.

Just Folks
LIFE AND MONEY
There is a gold star in a window near.

And passing by
I think: "To match that woman's silent tear,
What loss have I?"

"Was my bond money brave and clean and true,
As once was he?
Did it have dreams of what its strength could do,
And life might be?"

"Did it know love and laughter, dance and song,
And skill and pride?
Would it have died to save the world from wrong,
As that boy died?"

"No, it went forth, paid out, to be repaid
With added gain;
Never has it known cause to be a sufferer pain.

"Some day my money safely will return
And I shall smile.
But those who loved that lad, for him, will yearn
Through life's long while."

Today's Talk
UNCIVILIZED MAN

Henry D. Thoreau points out in his writings that man alone is feared by the birds, with the exception of a few varieties of birds of prey. He says that they play, romp and feed among animals and have no fear—but they shy at man!

No wonder that this is so self-evident a fact when all through history we have the illustrations of man killing man—a procedure, certainly, that gives no proof of the civilized nature of man.

We have been created, as is stated in the Bible, "in the image of God," but there much of the likeness disappears. Moses wrote out what the world looks upon as universal, God-created laws, and one of them says, "Thou shalt not kill!" But so-called civilized peoples keep on killing their own, and keep on saturating the world with hate and distrust. When are we to become civilized, according to the precepts taught by Christ?

The hunger of the world is for just a little human kindness. It takes redder blood to live than it does to die. All history proves this.

This is going to be a far different world after this tragic world war. Men are going to think more as human being and less as beasts. The worth of the soul is going to take a higher valuation. Money in the bank is going to count for less than bigness in the heart. The "Golden Rule" needs dusting off—and needs to be put to universal use.

The great lesson for all the world these coming years is to learn how to live, and to let live. It cannot be done by keeping hate alive in the world, however. In the words of Christ: "I give you a new commandment, that ye love one another." Simple enough, isn't it? And practical, too. It only needs application.

While Dewey did not specifically mention the commander-in-chief issue, Gov. Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, a retired major general and World War I veteran, said this country never had a president "who contemplated he was actually handling the Army and Navy."

Tries Something New
Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, told a reporter emphasis would be laid in the GOP campaign on the contention that the winning of the war should be left in the hands of military leaders.

With Illinois Republicans preparing to attempt to duplicate the reception that Pittsburgh gave to the nominee, Dewey scheduled another long round of conferences similar to those through which he hurried in Pennsylvania.

Trying something new in presidential campaigning, Dewey made no public speeches but talked, ate and shook hands with an estimated 5,500 persons informally in a Pittsburgh hotel.

To Visit Lincoln's Tomb
He and Mrs. Dewey took time out at one point to join a small group in singing "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Martin, whose anniversary was observed at a luncheon. Two parades through Pittsburgh streets, from and to the railroad station, gave the public its chance to see the nominee.

In Springfield, Dewey planned to lay a wreath on the tomb and visit the home of Abraham Lincoln. Then he scheduled talks with members of the Illinois congressional delegation and with leaders of Republican women's organizations, of negro groups, of labor unions, of service men's business and industrial organizations.

Here he expected to repeat his routine of listening to the problems of each group, commenting briefly and storing away information for coming major speeches which he and his running mate, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, are expected to undertake early next month.

Oil Price Rise Effective Today
Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—A 75 cents a barrel increase in the price of Pennsylvania grade crude oil becomes effective today, the largest increase under the premium payment plan announced July 6 by Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson.

Paid by the government on oil produced from marginal and strip-ped wells, the premiums are expected by the Office of Price Administration to encourage the producers to prolong the life of the wells, improve their operating efficiency, revive shut-in wells, institute secondary recovery projects and in general increase the nation's oil production.

Pennsylvania grade crude oils are found in only four states, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio and West Virginia. Smaller premiums will be paid on oil from low-yield wells in other areas.

Vinson said the increase over maximum prices will be paid by the first purchaser of the oil from the producer and owners of royalty interests. This first purchaser then applies to the Defense Supplies Corp. and the premium is refunded to him. Thus maximum crude oil prices are not increased on sales other than those made by producers and owners of royalty interests.

OXYGEN TENT
Wallingford, Conn. (AP)—Thousands of fish slowly suffocating in the reservoir here have been saved by the prompt application of artificial respiration by the fire department. Fish were found floating on top of the water, gasping for breath. The Fish and Game Dept. said it was lack of oxygen. Five fire engines were stationed along the lake and by pumping water into the air in a fine spray they supplied the deficient element.

Kansas City Is Ready For V-Day

Kansas City, Aug. 1 (AP)—Kansas City's merchants won't be unprepared for the pandemonium on V-day—the day Germany gives up the fight.

The Merchants association has decreed that all downtown stores must close within minutes after the first word is received, the employees are to put cash, records and valuable merchandise in protected places—and then go out and join in the fun.

Some merchants already have built sectional board walls which can be erected in a few moments to protect their plate glass windows against pressure of celebrating throngs.

Movies and taverns are planning similar action.

Other cities throughout the country are expected to adopt the scheme, the association reported.

If the signal is received on Sunday or a holiday or after 2 o'clock on the afternoon of a business day, the stores will remain closed all next day.

DECISIONS ON FISH AND CLARK SET FOR TODAY

(By The Associated Press)
Two of Congress' most colorful figures come up with renomination tries against tough opposition today—Rep. Hamilton Fish in New York's 29th District and Senator Bennett Clark in Missouri.

Fish's chances are affected not alone by the strength of his opponent, Attorney Augustus W. Bennett of Newburgh, but also by the fact that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell L. Willkie have called for his defeat.

Fish, outspoken Republican who has been in the House since 1920, was quoted in a newspaper article as having said that Jews are "more or less for the New Deal" and that it would be better "if they split their vote between the two major parties."

Dewey's own campaign was marked by conferences in Pittsburgh yesterday with political, business, farm, veterans and labor leaders. These, he said, were intended to speed up "the too-long delayed preparations for reconversion" of industry as war needs slacken.

Brownell's Prediction
After a stop in Springfield, Ill., Dewey is to arrive at St. Louis tomorrow for a long-heralded meeting with the country's 25 other Republican governors.

From the Republicans' national chairman, Herbert Brownell, Jr., there came, meanwhile, a prediction that Dewey will carry at least 25 states with 311 electoral votes against President Roosevelt in November. The victor needs but 266.

Senator Clark's opponent for the Democratic nomination is Roy McKittrick, Missouri's attorney general who has campaigned as a pro-Roosevelt man, attacking Clark's record on prewar foreign policy.

Clark, who at times has dissented vigorously from administration actions during his 11 years in the Senate, has the support of Senator Harry S. Truman, the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Clark's Challenge
Governor Forrest C. Donnell is one of seven Republicans contesting in Missouri primaries for their party's senatorial nomination. Nominees also are being selected for 13 House seats. New Yorkers are nominating for 45 House seats but the Fish-Bennett race overshadows all the others.

Kansas Republicans and Democrats and Virginia Democrats likewise hold primaries today, Virginians voting on candidates for nine House memberships.

Rep. Clare Booth Luce (R-Conn.), announcing she would run for reelection, said her opponents had contended she "might be purged by Sidney Hillman's political action committee" and that was a challenge "I can not ignore."

10,000 PLANES SENT TO REDS

Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 1 (Canadian Press)—Strict secrecy that has cloaked the mass movement of fighting planes from the United States to Russia over the Canadian and Alaskan wilderness route was lifted today after nearly two years of the heavy land-lease traffic.

It was learned from U. S. military sources here that approximately 10,000 American-built planes have been sent to Soviet war fronts since the fall of 1941, with about half of them being flown via Edmonton and Fairbanks, Alaska.

A stream of 2,200 planes have gone to the Russian front over this route in the first four months of 1944 alone, it was reported.

Officers reported that losses have been few. (At Seattle, Rep. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington said operational losses had been held to "an almost unbelievable minimum," despite "terrible cold weather hazards.")

The Russia-bound planes follow a route to Alaska pioneered by Canadian airmen and developed by Canadian engineers. American ferry pilots fly the ships from Great Falls, Mont., to Fairbanks. The Russians take over at Fairbanks and fly to Siberia via a 550-mile leg to Nome, on the Bering sea. The Great Falls-Edmonton hop is 600 miles. Fairbanks is nearly 1,000 more.

Russian airmen have been seen frequently here and have been acclaimed at public gatherings. Russian women also have participated in the flights from Alaska, but none have been seen here.

German prisoners poured in faster than a definite count could be made. Hundreds were taken on both the American and British front. The total for the week's campaign seemed near 15,000.

British troops under Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey went into high gear during the night, although it still was too early to call the onslaught a definite breakthrough. Indications were, however, that the German center had suffered a serious dent.

The British have captured the village of Fumehon on the north edge of the Bois Du Homme forest and strengthened their hold on hill 309 and the village of Galet Arund the western and southwestern fringes of the wood.

From Stockholm came word that the German controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau reported today from Berlin that 19 Russian tank forces, supported by enormous tank forces, smashed at German positions along a 30-mile Estonian front from Lake Peipus to the Gulf of Finland.

A Helsinki dispatch said the thunder of guns could be heard across the gulf, which is 40 to 80 miles wide.

The Russians announced that Soviet forces had stormed into the pre-war Lithuanian capital of Kaunas and were fighting in its streets. (Berlin said yesterday the city had been captured.)

WAR WORKERS STRANDED BY PHILLY STRIKE

Philadelphia, Aug. 1 (AP)—Hundreds of thousands of work-bound Philadelphians were left stranded on street corners today by a sudden, unheralded work stoppage that halted all urban buses and street cars and virtually paralyzed the city's subway and subway-elevated lines.

Vital war production was slowed in war plants throughout this metropolis of 2,000,000, termed by the War Manpower Commission the second highest war producing center in the nation, as thousands stayed at home and other thousands straggled in one, two and three hours late.

A spokesman for the Philadelphia Transportation company, operator of the city's entire transportation system, said the company believed the bus, trolley and subway drivers quit in protest against the hiring of negro operators.

Negroes were upgraded to platform (operative) jobs several weeks ago in accordance with the WMC's employment stabilization plan and the first group of eight was to have made practice runs today for the first time. The upgrading, brought about by the President's fair employment practice committee, was protested by both the company and the Transport Workers Union (CIO).

A union spokesman emphasized there was no strike. Many drivers had reported in ill. Others told reporters they were "too sick to take the cars out."

About 6,000 took part in the movement, which spread to repair shops. There was no advance warning of the stoppage, which began at one car barn at 4 a. m. and spread to other barns until, at about 5 a. m., all buses and trolleys were out of operation. Some buses were left marooned on the streets. The number of Market street "el" and Broad street subway trains began decreasing by the height of the morning rush and by 8 a. m. service on both was nearly at a standstill.

10,000 PLANES SENT TO REDS

Edmonton, Alta, Aug. 1 (Canadian Press)—Strict secrecy that has cloaked the mass movement of fighting planes from the United States to Russia over the Canadian and Alaskan wilderness route was lifted today after nearly two years of the heavy lend-lease traffic.

It was learned from U. S. military sources here that approximately 10,000 American-built planes have been sent to Soviet war fronts since the fall of 1941, with about half of them being flown via Edmonton and Fairbanks, Alaska.

A stream of 2,200 planes have gone to the Russian front over this route in the first four months of 1944 alone, it was reported.

Officers reported that losses have been few. (At Seattle, Rep. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington said operational losses had been held to "an almost unbelievable minimum," despite "terrific cold weather hazards.")

The Russia-bound planes follow a route to Alaska pioneered by Canadian airmen and developed by Canadian engineers. American ferry pilots fly the ships from Great Falls, Mont., to Fairbanks. The Russians take over at Fairbanks and fly to Siberia via a 550-mile leg to Nome, on the Bering sea. The Great Falls-Edmonton hop is 600 miles, Fairbanks is nearly 1,000 more.

Russian airmen have been seen frequently here and have been acclaimed at public gatherings. Russian women also have participated in the flights from Alaska, but none have been seen here.

There was no advance warning of the stoppage, which began at one car barn at 4 a. m. and spread to other barns until, at about 5 a. m., all buses and trolleys were out of operation. Some buses were left marooned on the streets. The number of Market street "el" and Broad street subway trains began decreasing at the height of the morning rush and by 8 a. m. service on both was nearly at a standstill.

At Baby Jeanne's puzzled from she laughed quickly and began to dress the child in the exquisite little garments she had fashioned herself.

"You can take your carriage with you. That's a carriage you needn't be ashamed to be seen in anywhere. And when you get a little older, maybe your mother would let me come over and watch you sometime, when you're being wheeled in the park. I wouldn't talk to you then the way I'm talking to you now—because you really don't belong to me, darling. And it's best you forget. But it wouldn't hurt any if I just stood and watched you for a little while..."

It was a white-faced Martha who brought the baby out and placed her gently in Barbara's arms. "I'll run pack her things now," she said. "They'll be ready in about fifteen minutes. Perhaps you'd better send for the taxi."

When she came back into the room, a box packed with the child's belongings in her arms, there was a sudden hush, and Barbara looked a little self-conscious. But Baby Jeanne had no such inhibitions. She turned a wide grin toward the older woman and held out both arms with unrestrained joy. And then, so clearly that no one could mistake it, she said, emphatically: "Ma-ta."

The effect on her audience was electrifying. Louise gave a squeal of delight, and even Angel said with astonishment: "She called you by name." Barbara held the child more tightly, and looked at her as if she were seeing her for the first time. But Martha, who had managed to hold on to her self-control until now, was completely undone. Her face crumpled, and she stumbled into a nearby chair, burying her face in her hands.

It seemed a long while before Barbara spoke, although actually it was only a few seconds. "Mrs. Malone," she said, a little hesitantly, "there's something I've been wanting to ask you—but I was afraid I'd offend you." She paused for a moment then went on more firmly. "However, Baby Jeanne has decided the question for herself. She wants you—and I don't believe she could get along without you. Would you consider coming over to my parents' apartment in Gramercy Park? For the time being I'd have to ask you to come in only by the day."

"I never heard of such nonsense," broke in Angel. "Mother's got her own family. If you think she's going out to work as a common servant—well, you're very much mistaken."

Barbara ignored that, and continued to address Martha. "Would you consider it, Mrs. Malone—for Baby Jeanne's sake? I could pay you—say, about two hundred a month, if that would be all right."

Martha did not hear the offer. She was looking from Baby Jeanne to Barbara and back to Baby Jeanne again, a radiant smile on her face.

"You—you mean I could see Baby Jeanne every day? You won't mind having me talk to her and—"

Martha left the room to get dressed, while Louise went out to call a taxi. A little while later she was going down the stairs with

WAR WORKERS STRANDED BY PHILLY STRIKE

Philadelphia, Aug. 1 (AP)—Hundreds of thousands of work-bound Philadelphians were left stranded on street corners today by a sudden, unheralded work stoppage that halted all urban buses and street cars and virtually paralyzed the city's subway and subway-elevated lines.

Vital war production was slowed in war plants throughout this metropolis of 2,000,000, termed by the War Manpower Commission the second highest war producing center in the nation, as thousands stayed at home and other thousands straggled in one, two and three hours late.

A spokesman for the Philadelphia Transportation company, operator of the city's entire transportation system, said the company believed the bus, trolley and subway drivers quit in protest against the hiring of negro workers.

Negroes were upgraded to platform (operative) jobs several weeks ago in accordance with the WMC's employment stabilization plan and the first group of eight was to have made practice runs today for the first time. The upgrading, brought about by the President's fair employment practice committee, was protested by both the company and the Transport Workers Union (CIO).

A union spokesman emphasized there was no strike. Many drivers had reported in ill. Others told reporters they were "too sick to take the cars out."

About 6,000 took part in the movement, which spread to repair shops. There was no advance warning of the stoppage, which began at one car barn at 4 a. m. and spread to other barns until, at about 5 a. m., all buses and trolleys were out of operation. Blonde in Brooklyn

Chapter 27

Martha had gone on into the bedroom. It was doubtful if she even heard Louise's remarks. She had wondered how she could get the baby ready to go away. But once she looked down at the flushed little face and the clenched fists flung back against the rose-petal cheeks, habit reassured itself and she went quietly about her usual routine.

However she did make it more of a ritual. She walked over and raised the shade at the window, fusing with it a little until it was exactly the right height. She came back and bent over the crib for a few seconds, trying to fix the picture of the sleeping baby in her mind. When at last she picked her body in her arms was almost too much for her. Then came the moment that only she knew. Baby Jeanne opened her eyes, looked up at her, and gave a little smile of perfect content before she opened her rosebud mouth in a composed and self-satisfied yawn.

Somehow that moment with the baby restored Martha's faltering courage. Baby Jeanne had given her something that no one could take away; a child's first love and trust.

"And now," she said holding the baby close for an instant, "you're going to a big beautiful apartment where there's sunshine all day long. And all the orange juice a little girl could ever drink. Instead of having just Martha and Louise to love you, you'll have your own true grandmother and grandfather. And your own mother—a better one than Angel would have been—God forgive me for saying so."

At Baby Jeanne's puzzled from she laughed quickly and began to dress the child in the exquisite little garments she had fashioned herself.

"You can take your carriage with you. That's a carriage you needn't be ashamed to be seen in anywhere. Juste Fontaine Wins With TKO

Pittsburgh, Aug. 1 (AP)—It took Juste Fontaine almost seven rounds to get going in his first start since he tangled with a corps of physicians and surgeons last spring, but when he did he scored a quick technical knockout over Santiago Rivera in one of two eight-round bouts at Hickey Park last night.

Although ahead all the way, Fontaine appeared to have trouble getting started until late in the seventh when he felled Rivera with a terrific left hook that broke one of the Mexican's ribs. The bell saved the Mexican from a probable knockout, and when he came back for the eighth round the referee stopped the bout after 31 seconds. It was Fontaine's 18th victory in 19 professional starts. He weighed 135 to Rivera's 133.

In the other eight-rounder, Pedro Ibarra, 137, also a Mexican, won a decision from Samma Parrotta, 135, Pittsburgh. Although the decision was unanimous it brought a chorus of boos from the crowd of 2,275 that paid $2,822.50 to see the five-bout card.

Juste Fontaine Wins With TKO

Pittsburgh, Aug. 1 (AP)—It took Juste Fontaine almost seven rounds to get going in his first start since he tangled with a corps of physicians and surgeons last spring, but when he did he scored a quick technical knockout over Santiago Rivera in one or two eight-round bouts at Hickey Park last night.

Although ahead all the way, Fontaine appeared to have trouble getting started until late in the seventh when he felled Rivera with a terrific left hook that broke one of the Mexican's ribs. The bell saved the Mexican from a probable knockout, and when he came back for the eighth round the referee stopped the bout after 31 seconds. It was Fontaine's 18th victory in 19 professional starts. He weighed 133 to Rivera's 138.

In the other eight-rounder, Pedro Ibarra, 137, also a Mexican, won a decision from Samma Parrotta, 135, Pittsburgh. Although the decision was unanimous, it brought a chorus of boos from the crowd of 2,279 that paid $3,888.50 to see the five-bout card.

Allentown Holds Third Post In Loop

(By The Associated Press) Allentown held third place today in the Interstate baseball league after the Trenton Packers handed the Cardinals an 8 to 4 setback last night.

Connie Meriwether, Allentown southpaw, turned in three hitless innings before Kermit Kiltman solved him for an infield single in the fourth. From then on the Packers pecked away consistently at Connie's deliveries, chasing two runs across the plate in the fifth, three

Rutgers Plans 5-Game Schedule

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 1 (AP)—Athletics Director George E. Little announced today Rutgers university's wartime athletic policy for the 1944-45 academic year will include an abbreviated five-game football schedule, the same as last fall.

Basketball will be resumed, and possibly swimming also, for the winter sports program. Baseball and track will be continued. Rutgers will inaugurate its football season against Lafayette, at Easton, Pa., on October 28. Lehigh will be met at Bethlehem November 4 and the second contest with Lafayette will be held in the Rutgers stadium November 11. The second Lehigh game, to be played here, has not yet been arranged.

GIRL FOR CHAPLINS

Santa Monica, Calif., Aug. 1 (AP)—A baby girl was born to Oona O'Neill Chaplin, 18-year-old wife of comedian Charlie Chaplin, at St. John's hospital last night. Dr. Sheldon Payne announced this morning. Mrs. Chaplin, daughter of playwright Eugene O'Neill, and the film comic were married in June, 1943. Chaplin is 54.

more in the sixth, two in the seventh and one in the eighth.

The Lancaster Red Roses, now in fifth place, got off to an early start in the first inning when they collected six hits and six runs to put them on their way to a 15 to 5 victory over the Hagerstown Owls.

York's White Roses, now occupying the No. 2 spot in the league, and the league-leading Wilmington Blue Rocks were idle yesterday.

Tonight's games: Hagerstown at Lancaster, Allentown at Trenton and York at Wilmington.

OVERLIN TRAINS FOR COMEBACK

San Francisco, Aug. 1 (AP)—The husky fellow bundled in sweat clothes who is running over Steamboat Springs, Nev., roads these days is confident the jogging will eventually put him in Madison Square garden.

The fellow who is doing the road work is Sailor Ken Overlin, who once held New York Athletic commission recognition as world's middleweight champion.

Overlin, training for a ring comeback, will campaign in the lightweight ranks this time, the possibility of trimming down to 160 pounds being too remote to be considered. He probably will weigh between 165 and 170 pounds.

Overlin is 33—old folks—as boxers go.

He received a medical discharge from the Navy recently after a two and one-half years stretch during which he saw overseas service for 21 months. Altogether he has served 11 years in the Navy. His last bout was in 1942 when he and Chief Specialist Fred Apostoli, USN, also an ex-middleweight title holder, fought a ten-round draw.

Investment purchases of American life insurance companies were over $5,720,000,000 in 1943.

Washington's mid-winter pennant boom vanished in thin air today as the Nats hit the American league cellar while the St. Louis Browns and Boston Red Sox, once a couple of "also-rans," loaded up for the stretch drive.

The Browns and Red Sox, who were supposed to be playing merely for exercise while Washington and New York fought for the flag, took charge of the battle as the clubs neared the two-third marker by strengthening their weakest spots.

St. Louis acquired Catcher Tom Turner from the White Sox via the waiver route to bolster Frank Mancuso and Red Hayworth. Boston picked up Rex Cecil from San Diego, the Pacific Coast strikeout king to report before August 14 and give Tex Hughson a hand in the department that has been the club's glaring weakness.

Even the New York Yankees, currently in third place but only 5½ games back, sought a new catcher to replace Rolfe Hemslay who will be inducted Monday. To date no results had been announced.

Washington dipped into the basement last night after bowing to St. Louis, 3-2. Homers by Vern Stephens and Lefty McQuinn helped Jack Kramer take the nod over Roger Wolff, making his first start in a month.

Boston kept pace with the Browns by shading Cleveland, 1-0, on an unearned run in the ninth. Mike Ryba and Red Barrett, who relieved in the last frame, yielded only two hits as did the Tribe's Steve Gromek. Pete Fox's single following a two-base error by Mickey Rocco told the story.

A's Win in 10th
 Philadelphia pushed past Chicago in the 10th, 3-2 as Hal Epps' single followed Buddy Hall's triple to give Russ Christopher the win over Orval Grove. Detroit and New York were not scheduled.

Brooklyn's Hal Gregg ended a two-month victory famine by beating St. Louis, 6-1, his first win since May 30. Mort Cooper was hampered off the hill in three frames.

Chicago took its seventh straight, 5-1, on Hy Vandenberg's three-hitter as the Phillies bowed for the ninth in a row, but the Cubs failed to reach their first division goal as the New York Giants topped Cincinnati, 9-7, a Rookie Andy Hansen relieved Bill Voiselle to throw a fancy 8-inning job for his first big league win.

Fritz Ostermuller of Pittsburgh, stopped Boston, 9-2, with two hits, trimming Nate Andrews and chiming in with three hits for the cause.

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—Aaron Perry, 18, Washington's leading fistic hopeful, takes another step in the general direction of the big-time (he hopes) in an 11-round return bout with Sammy Angott, former NBA lightweight king, here tonight. Angott, who decided Perry in an early summer engagement, ruled about an 8-5 favorite with the betting boys.

Albany Gains On League Leaders

(By The Associated Press)
 The Albany Senators, battling to close the gap between their Eastern league runner-up spot and the leading Hartford Laurels, made a little headway last night when they ran their current winning streak to eight.

The Senators defeated the Elmira Pioneers, 6-3, as the Laurels dropped a tight 4-3 decision to Williamsport's Grays. In other games Binghamton downed Wilkes-Barre, 7-3, and Scranton came back to beat Utica, 7-2, after losing the first game of a doubleheader, 2-1.

The split left Scranton in the league cellar, three percentage points behind Wilkes-Barre.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By FRITZ HOWELL
 (Pinch-Hitting for Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Some bits of baseball:

A member of the St. Louis Post Dispatch sports staff found a man who wants to bet the Browns win the world series, but Sports Editor John E. Wray turns down all inquiries with: "No, you can't have his address—we saw him first!"

Joe DiMaggio is leading the Yankees at the bat again—but this time it's the khaki-clad Yankees in Hawaii for whom he's hitting .441.

Tom Brown, the new 16-year-old shortstop signed by the Dodgers may be a help to the Bums after all. They say he's big enough to wear long pants. Which brings up the observation that these wartime infielders boast no tinkers-to-evers-to-chance combinations—they're just tinkers, and you'd better read it fast.

Seriously: Don't be surprised if Bill Skiff, competent skipper of the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast loop, takes over a big league club next year. Several biggies are stalking the Yankee-trained pilot.

QUICKIES!

Auctioneers are offering 452 colts and fillies for sale at the Keeneland (Lexington, Ky.) yearling auction this week, but for the first time since 1922 not a son or daughter of Man O'War is among 'em. . . Stan Partenheimer, Columbus Red Bird pitcher, has beaten every club in the American association this year, including Columbus (he was with Louisville earlier). . . Bill Nicholson, Chicago Cub slugging outfielder, is color blind—but he can see that white ball. . . Lt. Ted Williams, former Red Sox slugger now playing with the air station team at Pensacola, Fla., says the service team has four hitters better than himself (whew!). . . Gen. U. S.  Paccassi also said: "The civilian heavyweights today are bums, but I've got the best bum in Nova."

DEVIL DIVER IS STILL UNBEATEN

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—There's been a lot of talk about when and where Pavot and Free For All, thus far regarded as the leading eastern and western juveniles, respectively, will clash. But there's another turf natural. Fans want to see Mrs. Payne Whitney's Devil Diver and Mrs. Ed Mulrenan's First Fiddle have a go at it.

Devil Diver, winner of the Paumonok, Toboggan and Metropolitan earlier in the season, returned to the races yesterday following recovery from an injury and won the American Legion handicap to remain unbeaten this year. His galloping score and that of G. D. Widener's Plebsite in the Flash stakes featured the opening of the Saratoga-at-Belmont meeting. Devil carried 136 pounds, more than any other American Legion victor in its 18 runnings.

First Fiddle, a reformed $2,500 plater whose latest success came in the rich Butler last Saturday at Jamaica, seems the only other handicap horse with much chance to disturb the Diver under high weights.

There are ample stakes opportunities at the transplanted SPA meeting of 30 days for the Fiddle and the Diver to match strides. Each have been nominated for the Merchants' & Citizens' handicap, 11/16 miles, $15,000 added, Saturday; the Whitney, 1 1/4 miles, $15,000 added, Aug. 15; Saratoga handicap, $50,000 added, 1 1/4, Aug. 19, and the Wilson, $15,000 added, one mile, Aug. 26.

Juste Fontaine Wins With TKO

Pittsburgh, Aug. 1 (AP)—It took Juste Fontaine almost seven rounds to get going in his first start since he tangled with a corps of physicians and surgeons last spring, but when he did he scored a quick technical knockout over Santiago Rivera in one or two eight-round bouts at Hickey Park last night.

Although ahead all the way, Fontaine appeared to have trouble getting started until late in the seventh when he felled Rivera with a terrific left hook that broke one of the Mexican's ribs. The bell saved the Mexican from a probable knockout, and when he came back for the eighth round the referee stopped the bout after 31 seconds.

It was Fontaine's 18th victory in 19 professional starts. He weighed 133 to Rivera's 138.

In the other eight-rounder, Pedro Ibarra, 137, also a Mexican, won a decision from Samma Parrotta, 135, Pittsburgh. Although the decision was unanimous, it brought a chorus of boos from the crowd of 2,279 that paid $3.88.50 to see the five-bout card.

Rutgers Plans 5-Game Schedule

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 1 (AP)—Athletics Director George E. Little announced today Rutgers university's wartime athletic policy for the 1944-45 academic year will include an abbreviated five-game football schedule, the same as last fall.

Basketball will be resumed, and possibly swimming also, for the winter sports program. Baseball and track will be continued.

Rutgers will inaugurate its football season against Lafayette, at Easton, Pa., on October 28. Lehigh will be met at Bethlehem November 4 and the second contest with Lafayette will be held in the Rutgers stadium November 11. The second Lehigh game, to be played here, has not yet been arranged.

QUICKIES!

Auctioneers are offering 452 colts and fillies for sale at the Keeneland (Lexington, Ky.) yearling auction this week, but for the first time since 1922 not a son or daughter of Man O'War is among 'em. . . . Stan Partenheimer, Columbus Red Bird pitcher, has beaten every club in the American association this year, including Columbus (he was with Louisville earlier). . . . Bill Nicholson, Chicago Cub slugging outfielder, is color blind—but he can see that white ball. . . . Lt. Ted Williams, former Red Sox slugger now playing with the air station team at Pensacola, Fla., says the service team has four hitters better than himself (whew!). . . . Gen. U. S. Grant was president of the United States when the National league was born in 1876 (bet you thought it was Roosevelt). . . . The boys of Public School No. 3 in the Bronx have adopted 13-year-old Patricia (Pat) Sinclair, winner of the 100-yard breaststroke championship at the Oakland, Calif., AAU meet, as their pin-up girl.

THE GUY'S PSYCHIC

Frankie Paccassi, Lou Nova's manager, in a pre-flight discussion of Friday's Lee Q. Murray-Turkey Thompson affair in Madison Square Garden, and its possible effect on the duration heavyweight situation, offered:

"Both them guys will eliminate each other."

And they did, chum, they did! Paccassi also said: "The civilian heavyweights today are bums, but I've got the best bum in Nova."

DEVIL DIVER IS STILL UNBEATEN

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—There's been a lot of talk about when and where Pavot and Free For All, thus far regarded as the leading eastern and western juveniles, respectively, will clash. But there's another turf natural. Fans want to see Mrs. Payne Whitney's Devil Diver and Mrs. Ed Mulrean's First Fiddle have a go at it.

Devil Diver, winner of the Paumonok, Toboggan and Metropolitan earlier in the season, returned to the races yesterday following recovery from an injury and won the American Legion handicap to remain unbeaten this year. His galloping score and that of G. D. Widener's Plebiscite in the Flash stakes featured the opening of the Saratoga-at-Belmont meeting. Devil Diver carried 136 pounds, more than any other American Legion victor in its 18 runnings.

First Fiddle, a reformed $2,500 plater whose latest success came in the rich Butler last Saturday at Jamaica, seems the only other handicap horse with much chance to disturb the Diver under high weights.

There are ample stakes opportunities at the transplanted SPA meeting of 30 days for the Fiddle and the Diver to match strides. Each have been nominated for the Merchants' & Citizens' handicap, 1 1/16 miles, $15,000 added, Saturday; the Whitney, 1 1/4 miles, $15,000 added, Aug. 15; Saratoga handicap, $50,000 added, 1 1/4, Aug. 19, and the Wilson, $15,000 added, one mile, Aug. 26.
